Levi Goffeney

QA Engineer/Python Developer

Cary, North Carolina, United States

Summary

As a native of the Pacific Northwest I have developed a love for nature and exploration. This desire to explore has taken me from coast to coast and given me a wealth of experience with people and places all over the world. I studied history and philosophy at Portland State University. Over the past several years I have developed a passion for technology which has led me to pursue a career in software development by studying computer science independently and as a student at North Carolina State University.

Somewhere along the way, my adventures lead to racing cars which is now my dominant hobby. I am competing in a spec class against other friends in nearly identical cars. To facilitate my love for racing and software, I started RaceRentals; a software company which facilitates peer to peer race car rentals.

Over the last few positions I have held, I have learned and practiced Python development and would like to leverage that experience to work in a Python Developer position. I thrive in environments with clear goals and feedback on my code. I never want to work in a position that feels easy, I always want to be required to grow and learn.
